

Centerity Tracker

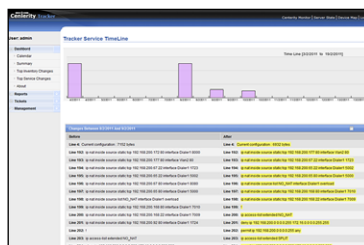

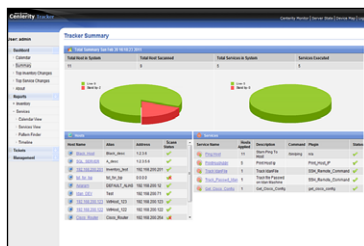

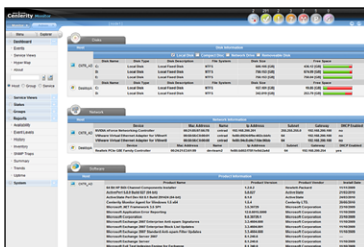

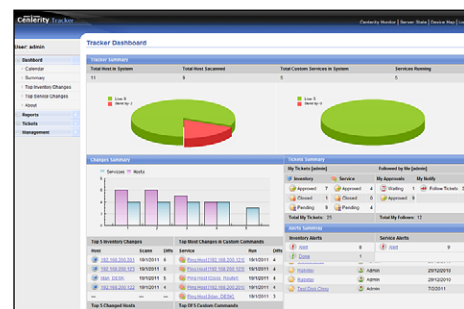

Centerity Tracker is a change management detection system for any change in the network and IT environment.

What is Change Management?

Change Management is a crucial service to ensure that the company's policies and procedures comply with actual status in order to minimize the number and impact of any related incidents upon service.

The Importance of Change Management

Any change in the IT infrastructure may cause problems and reflect business initiatives. Unplanned changes, either by human mistake or harmful reasons, may impact the entire organization dramatically by causing down-time, loss of data, low productivity and customer dissatisfaction. Change Management system can ensure standardized methods, processes and procedures for all changes, and maintain the proper balance between the need for change and the potential detrimental impact of changes.

Centerity Change Management Tracker Capabilities

- Tracking requests for changes and documenting the proposed changes details.
- Comparing the requested changes to best practice templates.
- Ensure that organization policies won't be violated by the change (such as a change resetting all servers, users accounts to have a admin access).
- Displaying the exact changes which will be made to devices configuration files.
- Monitoring devices, files and any required data source for changes, pulling the changes, and documenting them for review and alerting.

Centerity change management tracker manages and detects the following change processes:

- Hardware changes.
- Network configurations changes.
- File changes.
- Software inventory changes.
- System information changes.
- Policies (active directory, users etc').
